It took around 15 minutes for the jail authorities and family members to get the information about Kapila's death. A spokesperson for the Surat police said, "A few days ago, the jail authorities informed us that Kapila was unwell and we arranged for medical help. We tried to contact Kapila's family members but they were not available. Kapila was brought into the hospital and we were told that he died of a heart attack." The spokesperson added that Kapila was a regular visitor to the hospital for medical checks.

Kapila's family members claim that they were not informed about the medical emergency. They said that Kapila was supposed to be brought to the hospital for treatment. Kapila's father, Arvind Kapila, said, "We were not informed about Kapila's medical emergency. The jail authorities should have informed us about his medical condition. Kapila was a regular visitor to the hospital and we were not informed about his medical condition." Kapila's brother, Kapil Kapila, said, "We were not informed about Kapila's medical emergency. The jail authorities should have informed us about his medical condition. Kapila was a regular visitor to the hospital and we were not informed about his medical condition."
